THE PRESIDENT AND THE OKLA.

rail Thompson out of the Race for the Intern wenue Commissionership-Thurman Prob-able for the English Mission-Other Probabilities Ahead-Federal Gossip.

WASHINGTON, March 12 .- [Special.]-The cabinet meeting to-day did little except discuss the Oklahoma question. The president relierated the views expressed in his inaugual, that the Indians should be protected in the absolute occupancy and control of their territory. Secretary Lamar and other members of the cabinet indorsed these views emphatically. While it is agreed that the Indiers must be profected from the boomers, no perious trouble is apprehended. It is thought the demonstration that the government is firmly determined on this policy, will suffice to suppress the boomers, without the adoption of any violent means.

SOME CRITICISM SPRINGING UP. The comments are rather unfavorable on Secretary Manning's appointment of Eugene Higgins, of Baltimore, as appointment clerk of the treasury. He has been one of Senator Corman's lieutenants in Baltimore politics for several years and has figured conspicuously in the faction's contests for the control of the city government. He is well known in racing and sporting circles. PHIL THOMPSON MUST GO. The internal revenue commissionership is still the subject of sharp contention. The Kentucky delegation are decidedly sore over Phil Thompson's defeat, as Gibson, of West Virginia, will get the place. To-day they made a great effort to rally such support as would cause Manning to reconsider his refusal to appoint Thompson. Congressman Morriion telegraphed to Manning from Springfield that he had not any favors, and would not ask any, except Thompson's appointment. Scores of telegrams poured in from New York, Chicego, Cincinnati and Louisville. Randall has been alone in his opposition to Thompson, but he put the reasons why he should not be appointed so clearly that they yet seem unanswerable to Manning, and Thompson is clearly out of the question. Congressman Gibson and State Auditor Miller, of West Virginia, are both prominent for the commissionership, of Missouri, will get it. WHO MAY BE FAVORED. The adjournment of the senate next week seeins probable. Several important diplomatic nominations are expected this week. Thurman's appointment to the English mission is very probable. The only doubt concerning it is as to Thurman's acceptance General McClealan is favorably discuss-ed for the German mission and General Lawton is spoken of for high diplomatic honors. The appointment of ex-Congressman Atkins, of Tennessee, as commissioner of Indien affairs, is considered certain. Frank Eurd, of Ohio, is strongly supported for the plicitor general. Phil Carroll, of Augusta, las excellent backing for the south Georgia district attorneyship.

but the latest report is that Judge Buckner,

PANDALL'S GREAT VICTORY. Single-Handed He Defeats a Multitude for Phil Thompson.

WASHINGTON, March 12 .- The Evening Star

Carlisle, Beck and Blackburn have been to see atment of Phil Thompson, of Kentucky, as tommissioner of internal revenue, and a large portion of the democrats in congress, besides the entire Kentucky delegation have added their efforts in his behalf. Morrison telegraphed a friend last night from Springfield to see the president, and tell him that he (Morrison) would not ask anything else of the administra tion, but the appointment of Thomp-son. The liquor men in New York representing a capital of $15,000,000, sent a petition to Secretary Manning this morning urging his appointment. Senators Beck and Voorhee called on Mr. Manning again this morning and urged the matter with great earnestness, while Mr. Blackburn was closeted with the president for a long time on the same subject. The only opposi tion to appointment is said to come from Randall, let it threatens to prove more powerful than all the influence that is brought on the other tide. His opposition is upon the grounds that the position should not go to Kentucky. He is said to have warned Secretary Manning that the appointment of a Kentucky man to that place would be a great misfortune to the party. Upon this Secre-tary Manning has taken a stand in opposition to ompson, and while he does not declare that he will not yield, he says he thinks it would be a bad intment. The point made is that the commissioner of internal revenue should not come from a state so largely engaged in the manufacture of whisky as Kentucky. THE FLORIDA LAND GRANTS. The Senate Debates the Florida Land

Grant Business. Washington, March 12 .- In the senate bater Manderson offered a resolution which he asked might be printed and lie upon the able. It calls upon the secretary of state for such information as the department may have regarding the rumored attempt of General Rufine Barrios, president of Guatemala, to seize upon the territory or destroy the integsily of the republics of Nicaragua, Honduras, San Salvador and Costa Rica, and to report what steps were being taken by the govern-ment to preserve the rights of the United States urder existing or pending treaties. Senator George presented the credentials of E. C. Walthall as United States senator from Ministrips, vice L. C. Larger resigned.

silic of Florida, to aid in the construction of nilroads in that state.

Mr. Van Wyck sent to the clerk's desk and had read a letter written by H. J. Simonton to Hon. Thomas R. Cobb, chairman of the house committee on public lands, setting forth the urdships experienced by the settlers upon the tanted lands, by reason of the oppressions of grantees. Mr. Van Wyck appreciated the sponsibility which the senator assumed in alling attention to the operations of a land trant railroad. The senate was informed a ww days ago that "the current of authority was unbroken" in the interior department in spalish;—the claims of the land grant, so hat it was undoubtedly true. This grant made in 1856 to construct a road. Before 1860 they had constructed from Fernandina to Cedar Keys, but over 150 miles of the line nothing was done. In 1876 application was made to the department to have the claim recognized. Mr. Chandler, of Michigan, was secretary of the interior. He, with all the facts before him, returned the matter to the company, and said no title remained in the state. He refused to confirm the grant. Mr. Van Wyck alluded to Mr. Chandler's action as one of the exceptions.

the grant. Mr. Van Wyck alluded to Mr. Chandler's action as one of the exceptions, one of the bright spots, in the history of the interior department. Yet, the very next secretary of the interior reversed this action, and therein preserved the continuity of precedents in allowing this plundering of the public domain by railroad companies. Mr. Schurz had preserved the symmetry of the department and that system of dealing with public lands, with a few exceptions, had been continued down to the present day. The grantees darent pretend that the settlers and pre-emptors had not the right to occupy the land, but they had the audaety and effrontary to ask that the land that had been occupied by legal pre-emptors and set been occupied by legal pre-emptors and set-tlers should be restored to them in the in-demnity limits. The grant was made in 1856, when the land was not worth ten cents an when the land was not worth ten cents an acre. These men were to invest private property and to improve the country, and yet for thirty years they had done note ng upon that portion of the proposed line in question. In the meantime, other capital had developed that country. Homesteaders and pre-emptors had gone upon the land, and now, when it had increased to five, ten and fifteen dollars.

an acre, the grantees came and asked the gov-ernment to still further recognize their title to the unentered lands:

Mr. Call said this grant covered the richest portion of the state of Florida, and there was a great deal of feeling in the state in regard to the matter. He presented petitions from cit-izens of the state, praying for its forfeiture, and one which was in opposition to the for-feiture of the grant. The grant, he said, was made in 1856 to the state of Florida. It was made shortly after the grant of the swamp and overflowed lands to the state to aid in the construction of realization. Of these lands onstruction of railroads. Of these lands twenty million acres had been conveyed to the state, and seven hundred thousand acres had been certified to this company. In addi-tion one million one hundred thousand acres had been granted to the company, the condi-tion being that it should build its road within the years. The creat expired in 1866 at ten years. The grant expired in 1866, at which time the branch road had been built, but the main line from Waldo to Tampa bay remained untouched. These conditions reremained untouched. These conditions remained unchanged for fifteen years. Then the company, claiming to be the assignee of the original grantee, but composed of the same persons, entered upon the construction of a road. The debt of the original company was unpaid, and the creditors sought by processes of law to prevent the sales of the lands by the assignees. The construction of the road had now been commenced, and was continued, but meantime the country had been opened up and developed by other companies, without the aid of land grants. The lands, worthless when granted, had come to be enormously valuable. Meantime settlers had gone upon these lands. There was an impression that

There was an impression that the senate was two far removed from the peo-ple to listen to complaints; that it represented ple to listen to complaints; that it represented property and incorporated power, without sympathy with the people, and he was anxious to disabuse the public mind in this regard. The settlers upon those lands had been recognized in their rights. Now an agent of this company, a Mr. Wales, of Washington, had undertaken to expose these lands for sale at public auction, to sell the improvements and orange groves of the settlers, and the settlers had been deprivthe settlers, and the settlers had been deprived of their rights as far as an act of sale could deprive them. This was done without authority of law. It was projet that congress should prevent this. The secretary of the interior had advised this company that it had no title to the lands. Yet the sale had gone on, and the settlers were alarmed. The land was granted while Mr. Ynce was a member of the senate, and at the same time president and principal steckholder of the company. The road was built entirely from the proceeds of the land sales and without any outlay of private means. It was the duty of the government to investigate the subject.

Mr. Morgan asked if the senator from Florids, or his collesgue, had ever introduced a bill for the forfeiture of this grant.

Mr. Call replied in the negative. e settlers, and the settlers had been depriv

Mr. Call replied in the negative.
Mr. Morgan said he found two bills upon this subject—one introduced by the senator from Nebraska; (Van Wyck,) and one by the senator from Kansas, (Plumb)—both of the committee on public lands. He remembered that when the latter was introduced the senator from Florida (Call) had saked a supension tor from Florida (Call) had asked a suspension

Mr. Call said he had not blamed the com mr. Call said he had not blamed the committee. This being the case, he thought it hardly worth while to spend the time of a purely executive session in considering the question. The nower to act belonged to congress, and not to the senate. Though the resolution might be accounted. tion might be referred to the committee on nution might be referred to the committee on public lands, it was obvious that the committee could not take action.

Mr. Flumb said that in the course of some investigations made by the committee on public lands, the conditions of this grant had been developed, and had not convict on the committee of the three convictions of the same developed. and being convinced that the committee ought to have fuller sway in its progress, he had in-troduced the bill, and had it referred to the committee for the purpose. The senator from Florida had come to him and asked a suspension of action, leaving an impression upon his (Plumb's) mind, that it was considered a matter which was in some way personal to the (Plumb's) mind, that it was considered a matter which was in some way personal to the senators from Florida. Those who had represented that the state had not thought the matter of sufficient importance to introduce a bill relating to the subject. There was no restraint which congress could exercise to prevent men from signing their rames to any thing. They could sell his (Plumb's) private property if anybody would buy it, but they could convey no title. If there was any power to deal with the question of protecting the rights of the settlers, it rested in the courts of Florida. It seemed to him if the senator from Florida wished to do anything practically in this regard, he should introduce a bill and not centent himself with presenting petitions—
Mr. Call said his course offered no justification for the criticisms of the senators from Alabama and Kansas. When the subject was first broached, he was unaware of the merits of the case upon either side, and depreciated action broached, he was unaware of the merits of the case upon either side, and depreciated action in advance of an investigation. He knew nothing of the sentiments and wants of the people of that part of the state. In 1880 the first popular sentiment began to be felt. He had introduced petitions and made remarks in support of the objects the petitioners sought to accomplish. The public land committee, to which the petitions had been referred, had full knowledge of the subject, and could act as well as if he had introduced a bill on the subject, etc.

Upon motion of Senator Cameron, the senate a:30 adjourned.

BARRIOS' BREAK.

FUTILE EFFORT TO CONSOLI

President Barrics, of Gautamals, Declares Himself Commander of the Forces of all the Republics, But they Repudiate His Pretencions— Other News from Central America.

NICABAGUA, March 12 .- Active war preparations are being made throughout the country. The government has now several thousand men ready to send to the frontier. Strenuous efforts to resist Barrios are being made in Costa Rica, and a large number of soldiers are ready to move at short notice. Great enthusiasm is manifested, and confidence in the final result is displayed. It is thought very probable in some quarters that Guatemala will con-sider the matter before attempting coercive measures, and that a friendly solution of the difficult problem of uniting the five states may be arrived at. THE HISTORY OF THE MOVEMENT.

On the fifth of March, President Barrios, of Gautemala, declared in the assembly of that country that Central America should constitute one republic, and at the same time he made a public announcement that he would assume the command of all the military forces of the various states. This declaration was accepted by Honduras, but was rejected by San Salvador, Nicaragua and Costa Rica. The San Salvador, Nicaragua and Costa Rica. The forces of Guatemala began immediately to march sgainst San Salvador. The people of the latter republic rose as one man to resist the invasion, and yesterday Guatemala ceased hostilities. President Barrios, however, sent a request to President Soldivar, of San Salvador, that the latter country should appoint two commissioners, who should proceed to Guatemala, with power to treat in the present crisis. Whether the request will receive any attention has not yet been known. Meanwhile President Saldivar had telegraphed an account of the situation to had telegraphed an account of the situation to General Diaz, president of Mexico, and had asked him to use his influence to prevent bloodshed. In answer to this General Diaz bloodshed. In answer to this General Diaz sent the following telegram to President Saldivar:

"Your telegram of the 7th inst. is understood. I have taken the necessary precautions against any contingency that may arise. I have telegraphed to President Barrios as follows:

Your telegram of the 7th announcing your determination to declare Central America one republic, and to assume yourself commander of all the forces thereof, has been received. This declaration has been made by your assembly only, and has been made by your assembly only, and has been rejected by Guatemala, your sister republic. These circumstances have created such antipathy to your course among the Mexican citizens that my government will be obliged to take immediate action to prevent the execution of your threats against the sister nationalities of this continent."

The people of San Salvador are enthusiastic in their determination to preserve their independence. The patriotic feeling now runs to high that President Saldivar has extreme difficulty in restraining his truops.

WHITE HOUSE GOSSIP.

No New Neminations --- The Crush of Visitors

Washington, March 12.—It was comparatively quiet at the white house to-day, and there was a decided felling off in the number of callers. THE HAZEN COURT-MARTIAL.

THE HAZEN COURT-MARTIAL.

What General Hazen Admits in Regard to the Charges Against Him.

Washington, March 12.—In the Hazen-court mertial to-day, the judge advocate read the court the admission of facts promised by the accused yesterday. The accused admits that, in his annual report of October 15, 1834, he used the language of out in the first specification. He also admits that without authorization by the secretary of war, and without request from the latter, he (the accused) addressed to the secretary of war a communication containing the language set out in the third specification.

Counsel for the accused stated that it was the purpose of the defense, yesterday, to extend the admissions beyond what had been admitted, but that upon a comparison of the third specification with the documents to which it refers, they decided not to make the admissions they had intended to make.

The judge-advocate said that this change of purpose on the part of the defense made it necessary for him to bring another witness into court, and thus delay the court somewhat. The president of court interrupting the judge advocate, said:

"I don't see how you can require more than has been done. If they say they won't admit anything further, you can't make them, and there's no use talking about it."

The judge advocate then introduced in evidence the annual report of General Hazen, of October 15, 184, and the letter of General Hazen to the secretary of war of February 17, 1883. Upon the language in both of which the charge against General Hazen is in part based.

EXPENSIVE PROHIBITION. The Cost of Enforcing the Prohibition Laws

in Maine. PORTLAND, Me., March 12.—It is said that the efforts of the Rev. H. C. Munson to enforce the prohibitory law will prove too expensive to the tax payers of this county. Since January he has taken out 619 warrants, seizures have been made in 437 cases, and in 182 cases no liquors have been found. Out of the 437 seizures but 29 persons have been brought before the court, and of these 14 have been convicted. One paid $100 and $6 cost and thirteen appealed. This work has cost the country $2,559. During this time the liquor deputies made seventy five other seizures and at a cost to the country of $412. This cost, imposed on the country by Mr. Munson, is at the rate of $15,000 a year, the entire tax levy of the country this year being $30,000. A strong pressure will be brought to bear on Munson to induce him to abundon his present plan, and considerable alarm is expressed at the probable result if he applies the full rigor of law for the suppression of the liquor traffic. His friends say that of the 13 appealed cases all will probably be decided in favor of the country, so that $1,400 more will be received, which, added to $100 already in, will make $1,500, so that his $100 and $6 cost and thirteen appealed. $100 already in, will make $1,500, so that his. work has so far only cost about $1,000, so that flat work has so far only cost about $1,000 in excess of the amount received and sure to come in. London, March 12.—Lord Durham's suit for divorce on the ground of his wife's insanity, the trial of which was begun in the divorce court before Sir James Hannen, on February 25th, was to-day dismissed, with costs against his lordship. Sir James Hannen, in rendering his decision, declared that the respondent loved another and censured her family for arranging the marriage with his lordship. The alleged insanity of Isady Durham before her marriage was, the judge said, entirely unproved.

He censured several members of Lady Durham's family for the part they had performed in strainging for the marriage with Lord Durham when they must have known that she loved somebody else.

THE SOUDAN WAR.

A Night Attack Upon the En glish Sentries

Several Men Kille d.

London, March 12.—El Mahai's men last night attacked the ordnance enclosure of the garrison at Suakim, and killed two sentries belonging to the Berkshire regiment, and wounded three others. During this engagement in the dark, one of the attacking party was killed and several wounded. During the night the hostile Arabs, also, surprised the Shropshire infantry regiment patrol, killing one man and wounding one. One man belonging to this patrol is missing since last night's engagement.

The government has ordered the contractors to hasten the construction of the Suakim Berber railway. Two hundred additional navvies have been sent to work upon the road. in the meeting soon became general and intense. This was warranted by several incidents which preceded and attended the counence, Colonel George Amande, equerry in chief to the queen, called upon Mr. Gładstone, and had a long interview with him. Among the rumors to which this upon Mr. Gladstone, and had a long interview with bim. Among the rumors to which this gave rise was one to the effect that her majesty had been advised that the Indian situation was grave and required vigorous action, and that the queen had rather urgently insisted on her government doing something. This and similar stories attracted a large crowd to Downing street, and before the cabinet had been long in session, the prime minister's official residence was surrounded by a large crowd. It is not publicly known what the ministers have done at to-day's meeting. It is reported, however, that they decided to address a scrious representation to the Russian government, that if through any Russian advance, in Afghanistan, a conflict results with the ameer's troops, Russia must accept the consequences, the emissaries of El Mahdi at Jeddah, Dokahlith and other scaport towns opposite the Soudan. The placards order the "faithful" to organize and expel the Turks from Arabia, promising that the prophet will soon arrive at Jeddah and will lead his hosts to Mecca, where there will be displays in the sky such as will leave no doubt of his identity. The placards have caused an incipient rebellion in the seaport towns of Hedjaz, and the Turkish governor it doing his best to suppress the revolt.

When the attack was made upon the ordnance enclosure of the garrison of Suakim by El Mahdi's men last night, the rebels, in answer to the challenge of the pickets, replied "Friends." They then swarmed into the zerebs, overpowered the pickets, and attacked the guards, but hearing the men landing from the gunboat Condor, they decamped, carrying off with them all their dead and wounded except the body of their leader, Abdul, who was Osman-Digna's standardbearer.
Six of the British guards were killed, and seven others were wounded.

Lord Edmund Fitzmaurice replied that Sir Edward Thornton would proceed as ambassador to Constantinople when the conditions of the public service would permit.

Esir Stafford Northcote, conservative leader, asked whether or not the government was able to say anything with regard to the Rus ian advance in Afghanistan. Sir Stafford, in propounding this question, took advintage of the coession to refete, the widespread impression that the government had taken unusual steps to communicate with the opposition leaders upon the Afghan occurrences.

Mr. Gladstone replied that he was unable to impart anything that would substantially improve the information already possessed by the has secured an estate valued at $40,000,000, and he already in imagination feels the touch of the gold.

A few years before the opening of the present century Lord Townley—so the story runs—discowned his daughter Mary on account of her fondness for a gentleman named John Lawrence, who was of good family but of poor estate. The two came to this country and were married at Springfield, Mass., by the parish priest. At the close of the war Colonel James Jacques, a Methodist preacher from Ilion, settled in Springfield and discovered the record of the marriage.

Knowing of the Townley estate he traced the family to Gowanda, where he found the legal heiress in Mrs. Brown, a daughter of Judge Wilders, of Springville. He guaranteed for a third to get the money, and started for England. Soon after his arrival the court of the queen's bench decided that the claims of the heiress which he represented were valid, and since then he has been complying with the technicalities of the English law. The Markets Agitated.

London, March 12.—Stocks opened very flat, with a general decline. The market improved during the afternoon, owing partly to the favorable return by the bank of England, but relapsed somewhat at the finish, although closing quotations were, as a rule, above the lowest figures of the day. Russian securities declined 1%; American and Canadian railway securities were steadier, even strong. The fortnightly settlement was concluded astisfactorily, and no failures were reported. The Paris bourse was agitated, but an improvement was shown at the close. In Berlin a gloemy feeling prevails, Prunian stocks suffering most. In Vienna the market was weak and there was a general decline in prices. TELEGRAPH BREVITIES. COLUMBUS, Ga., March 12.—[Special ]—At the neeting of the board of trade to-night, Captain C. A. Redd alluded to certain rumors that a coalition had been formed looking to the appointment to the postmastership of Columbus of some one other than a true and tried democrat. He then offered a resolution declaring that the best citizens of Columbus desired the appointment of none but a staunch democrat and calling upon Henry R. Harris to exert him to prevent the carrying out of any scheme where by a man of doubtful political association might be appointed. After some discussion, in which it was suggested that the resolution was a reflection upon Colonel Harris as a representative, a vote upon the adoption of the resolution was taken and resulted in a tie. Mr. Redd disavowed any inlention to reflect on Colonel Harris and in-

The professor seemed to be in the best of spirits, and replied: "Oh, the public schools were never in better con-dition. We can hardly find room for the children applying for admission." "What is the number in attendance?" queried THE CONSTITUTION'S representative. "Nearly fifteen hundred, and they receive the best of attention.' "How about the high school?"

"Well, that is not doing so well, in point o numbers. The people are not giving it the encouragement it deserves. The trustees established this branch of the public schools as an experiment. They supposed the people of Columbus wanted such a school to supply the place of the female college, which was burned last year. The grade is equally as high and it is in the hands of competent instruc-tors. The number in attendance thus far, however, has not been at all encouraging, and it is evident that unless there is an increase, the collegiate department will not be what it was intended to be-self sustaining." The Columbus public schools are by common consent the best in the south. They were established seventeen years ago, and each year has added to the efficiency and popularity of the sys-tem. Columbus could not well do without her

Dalton Citizen: A great deal has alreafly been said concerning that wonderful apparatus, the electric mine indicator, by means of which the existence of gold and silver has been proven beyond a doubt in the Cohuttah range of mountains and contiguous country. Last Tuesday we had the pleasure of an interview with Mr. Jerome Prince, the inventor, who exhibited to us the aparatus and gave us a minute description of its workings. With the aid of this remarkable machine can be discovered, located and defined, beyond the shadow of a doubt, all existing veins or deposits of minerals within 50 feet of the surface of the carth, whether there be any outcroppings or indications visible to the human eye of such minerals or not. New veins were discovered last week on Captain Tilton's place by the aid of the indicator. Specimens were sent to Washington city to be assayed, and it was found that the ore per ton realized on an average $23.67 of gold, and $2.70 of silver. One vein is two feet six inches wide, and is supposed to be inexhaustible and very rich. Murray county is greatly excited over these discoveries and every property owner in the county is searching for the existence of gold or silver on his land.

Judge Willis took occasion to congratulate the jury and county on the triumph of prohibition in Talbotton, and that there was now only one place in the county where liquor is sold, and that it but a short while when it would be hanished from the land. He called the attention of the jury to the "free delivery" wagon, run be tween Talbotton and Geneva, and stated that this was a trick that could be caught and that it ought Rome Bulletin: Dr. J. M. Gregory placed on our table yesterday a sample ear of corn from his Beach creek farm, which is a little ahead of anything we have seen. The grains are quite smooth, round and plump and each ear is of three colors, red, white and blue, and therein consists the novelty. It is certainly a loyal kind of corn and bears the national colors.

The Barnett correspondent of the McDuffle Journal writes:
On Wednesday last I witnessed a touching scene of the burial of Mr. Lawson Wright and his wife, who died within a few hours of each other. Mr. Wright, aged 76, died at 20 'clock p. m., March 3, and Mrs. Mary Wright, his wife, died at 20 minutes past 11 o'clock. They were taken sick within twenty-lour hours of each other, and only nine hours and twenty minutes intervened between their deaths. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. T. J. Pilcher.

There is a balauce in the treasury of Gwinnett county of $12.882. The increase of the taxable propeity for the year was $30.000. A new jail is recommended. The grand lury says:
The propositions of Hon, G. J. Orr, state school commissioner, contained in his circular addressed to grand juries, and various state officers, have engaged our attention and consideration. All facilities for educating the people should enlist the co-operation of the people in every legitimate way that may be practicable. The commissioner asks of us that we recommend the passage of the bill now pending before the legislature, proposing to increase the state and the tax added to the public school lund. We are divided upon this question, but not a majority in its favor. The bill pending to appropriate che half of the rental of the Western and Atlantic railroad to the school fund, meets the unanimous favor of this grand jury, and we recommend the passage of that bill.

There never has been as much subscribed here as we needed and of the amounts subscribed, some of them will not be collected. It is to make up these deficiences that new subscriptions are asked that new subscriptions are asked and a committee will wait upon the people of Stewart county at once to secure the requisite amount. Notes can be given payable next fall, which can be used in building the road. There are quite a number of people in Stewart county who can give something toward this enterprise, and now is the time to act, as this s the rallying effort for completing the fumter and Webster are prepared to their part of the agreement and Stewart conn-ty must not be behind. Colonel Hawkins will be in Lumpkin again next Thursday when we rust the committee will be enabled to report the whole amount made up.

Verdict for Mr. Chalk.

From the Charlotte Observer. The suit of Mr. George W. Chalk against the Richmond and Danville railroad company to recover damages for a lot of flour burned at the depot in this city in the fire of 1875, was yesterday decided in Mr. Chalk's favor, the jury awarding him a verdict for $345. The case was argued yesterday by Mr. T. M. Pitt-man for the plaintiff and Mr. W. H. Bailey and Mr. George E. Wilson for the defendant companies, Judge Bynum concluding the argument for the plaintiff. It was late in the afternoon when the judge gave the case to the jury, and it was not until dark that a verdiet had been decided upon. Judge Phillips had been decided upon. Judge Phillips was not in the courthouse when the jury gave the burned, and does not include the interest. On eighty barrels of flour burned the jury allowed Mr. Chalk 81/4 cents, and on the twenty barrels 914 cents, making the total $845. It may be considered as pretty certain that the counsel for the railroad company will to-day take an appeal from this verdict to the supreme court. This case when first tried, if we are correctly informed, resulted in Mr. Chalk's favor, the jury awarding him about $700. An appeal was taken ing him about $700. An appeal was taken and the case was sent back by the supreme court for a new trial. The second trial resulted in favor of Mr. Chalk, the jury allowing him a sum considerably in excess of the first verdet. The decision in this case was set aside by the judge and a third trial or

The Rate War.

From the Chattanooga Times.
Colonel H. Collbran, general freight agent of the Queen and Crescent route, was in the city yesterday en route to New Orleans. A city yesterday en route to New Orleans. A Times reporter had an interview with him regarding the rate war which was begun a few days since by cutting freight rates from the east to Chattanoga. "I have been expecting this war for some time," he remarked. "The Chesapeake, Ohio and Western, Louisville and Mashville and the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroad commenced the by cutting rates to Nashville. Rates were uiet, and I don't know why it was commenced and I can't say who took the initial step. The Queen and Crescent route proposes to meet any reduction made by the other roads to Chattanooga."

Nothing new developed concerning the war yesterday, and the rates remain unchanged since the first cut. It is the general opinion among those in a position to know, that there will be another cut to-day. This opinion is based on a report that the Louisville and Nashville had made a reduction of thirty per cent in Eastern rates to Nashville. If the report be true, Chattanooga rates will certainly go lower to-day, as the lines here are determined that Chattanooga shall be placed on the same basis as Nashville while the war is peing that Chattanooga shall be placed on the same basis as Nashville while the war is being

HOW LONDON IS FED.

PROVIDING VICTUALS FOR FIVE MILLION PEOPLE.

Ergianc's Food Resources-Twenty-Six Thousand Vessis Bringing London its Dinner-The Large Quantities of Oysters, Eggs and Eutler-Some Startling Pigures.

How London is fed is a querry which can be pretty accurately answered, writes a London correspondent to the New York Sun, but the exact weight of tood the unparagoued giant setually devours cannot be so correctly gauged. London is fed by the world. England alone is not equal to the task. And no wonder. Think of this: The total length of the streets of London would be more than enough to link the metropolis through all Europe and western Asia to the southern extremity oi India. In this termless and living line calls for her daily food a population of 4,769,000, increasing at the rate of 45,000 persons per annum. Ten railway companies answer to that appeal, which is also responded to annually by a fleet of about 26,000 vessels, coming up from all parts.

But this does not exhaust all the agencies through which provisions are conveyed to the capital, for a not inconsiderable part arrives slso by road. This last system of conveyance, the results of which no authority checks, and the uncontrolled manner in which most artithe uncontrolled manner in which most arti-cles of alimentation reach the consumers, make it very difficult to put in unassailable figures the unparagoned giant's bill of fare. True, there are a few central markets where the great bulk of provisions and very nearly all the meat and fish gather, but all eatables all the meat and fish gather, but all eatables do not heap there, many being consigned straight to the retailers or consumers. Moreover, an enormous quantity of food is consigned to London, which is not consumed by the Londoners, but is sent to the provinces.

Here I must point out one of the mysterious doings of the trade, which can only be explained by the mononolizing business. The doings of the trade, which can only be explained by the monopolizing business. The fish you buy at Dover or other seaside town, where it may have been netted, costs you more than in London, whither it is dispatched asseon as caught, and where the fishningers of Dover and of the seaside towns have to get it. How the practical Briton can stand such an abuse is another question which I do not understand, and therefore cannot explain. As we get on we will come across a few other wenders.

Provincial butchers from at least the nearest counties send also not unfrequentily to London for their meat, and so do, on a larger scale still, the country retailers of early all foreign vegetables and fruit and foreign eggs and butter. Thus, between the food that comes to lander without being checked in any way by London without being checked in any way by the harbor authorities, the market superin denis, or the railway companies, and the food taken out of London, it is impossible to know, except approximately, what the Londoners

There is, however, no doubt that this un-There is, however, no doubt that this un-known figure, whatever it is, is a large one. I have more than once witnessed, for instance, the arrival of the fish by boats and by rail-way vans at the celebrated market of Billings-gate, notorious also for its glib grammer. It was apualling. The porters wholly disappear-td smong the heaps of them, and looked like miners busily clearing a gallery. Round Covent Garden market at 4:30 in the morning—the market opens at five—I have seen the space so filled colossal wagons, gigantic vans, gargandrays, and stupendous wains that you doot see the roofs of the highest houses behind. Do not shake your head skeptically.

wait. Last year in Billingsgate alone and its neighboring streets over 140,000 tons of fish were landed. In much less time than it would were landed. In much less time that it would take a lady to fix herself for an afternoon call I have seen the contents of fields and fields of potatoes and cabbages unloaded in Covent garden. The Monday before Christmas 2,132 ton of beef, representing a herd of 6,519 bullecks, were hooked in the Smithfield market, and on the following day, a Tuesday, I had a cepital luncheon on iboard the Elderslie, a steamship just arrived from New Zealand with carcasses of prime mutton. The day e Christmas I was loading in the Leadon-market, an ungrudging bazaar, e, according to your fancy, you can get the as a dead lark or as much as a living settitle as a dead fark or as much as a living tiger. The place was so encumbered with poultry, meat, game and other provisions that the difficulty of the buyer to get at the sellers was only equaled by the impossibility of the latter to sally on the former. A Spanish ambassador once told Charles II. that more provisions were sold in that mart than in all Spanis. Light that if the query would kindly

I bet that if the queen would kindly he present Spanish representative the same place her majesty would ly hear the same speech. The Englishman lives very well when he can, and alweys wastes. I speculate that twice the actual population of London, if it were Dutch, would live here luxuriously on what is hardly sufficient for its present inhabitants.

Long has England ceased to produce enough food for her children. In an average though food for her children. In an average year, say 1883, the London central markets fold 181,026 tons of Euglish meat, and as much as 42,844 tons of foreign meat, 25,799 tons of which were from the United States. Each year the proportion of foreign meat landed here increases. The full official report for the year 1884 has not been published, but I know that Australia and New Zealand have, during that year, sent over here no less thau 686,185 carcesses of mutton. The American traces, which has been dull for a little while, is looking up again, and those interested will. trade, which has been dull for a little while, is leoking up again, and those interested will. The doubt hear with pleasure that the private company, principally composed of salesmen having their stores at Smithfield market, which had built hard by some cold-air stores for the keeping of all perishable provisions, are considerably extending them. These stores can already take in from $90 to $90 tons of ment, and will soon be capable of sheltering double that quantity. Salesmen will, therefore, be able to keep the meat as long as they can get a remunerative price for it, instead of having to throw it away after a certain time regardless of loss. I have visited these stores. Their temperature, kept down by splendid Hazlam engines, was almost Siberian. The charges for renting them is Siberian. The charges for renting them is two and ene-half pence per week or eight pounds, which is cheap, and lower rates are granted for larger quantities.

In one week only, the week ending January 19, 1885, the United States and Canada had landed 75,220 sacks of flour in London. In the week ending January 24, 1885, 309 hundred weight of American cheese were unshiped in the port of London, exclusive of configurants by rail. The American cheese is in great favor in this country. No cantanker-cus gournet is able now to point to the least difference between the foreign article and the cus gourmet is able now to point to the least difference between the foreign article and the best English Cheddar, and it is just three pence cheaper per pound. Many London houses take nothing but American cheese. The national product is losing much ground. In one week alone in July last Mr. Lovell, of the great firmfof Lovell & Christmas, West Smithfield, tells me that he has sold 7,000 American cheeses. He kindly takes me into his enormous cellars, which can easily accommedate 20,000 boxes of the article, and explains that he never procures any other.

moiste 20,000 boxes of the article, and explains that he never procures any other.

To-day the English farmer keeps hardly one-fish of his cows' milk for choese. He sells the greatest part of the rest as milk, reserving the smallest portion for butter. English butter is scarce, dear, unequal in quality and hadly packed. The great houses of London much prefer to buy fresh French butter to their national produce. They say that it is superior to it, never varies in quality, can always be relied upon, and is admirably packed. Then the English farmer wants to have his baskets or cases returned, which gives a lot of trouble to the shopkeepers, while the Frenchman does not. Messra. Hudson, of Ludgate hill, one of the biggest firms for dairy produce in this city, and from whom I obtain very valuable information, relieve the French producers of about twenty-four tons of butter weekly, but never invest in the English commodity. Holland exports here an enormous smount of butterine, composed, as every one knows, of the finest and sweetest portions of suct from freshly slaughtered cattle, mixed and churned with a proportion of butter, milk and best vegetable oil. This is a profitable trade. Since 1883, when Holland alone exported to this country about forty thousand tons of this compound, representing a net value of close on to £2,950,000, this commerce has increased. I have tested some at Messra to this compound, representing a net value of close on to £2,950,000, this commerce has increased. I have tested some at Messra. Lovell & Christmas', and deemed it excellent, as do, it appears, the best London confectioners and cooks, who make large use of it.

If the French are first for the quality of their butter, and first again with the number of eggs they ship to this country (gt. 100's 3,265,174 in 1884), Germany being a good second with gt. 100's 2,226,287, Italy is above all for the quality of the last article, hardly any bad eggs ever being found in her admirably packed cases, and Belgium comes first for poultry and rabbits, for which she drained the Britain of no less sum than £384,830 in 1884.

rabbits, for which she drained the Britain of no less sum than £384,830 in 1884.

The importation of hams and salted pork and bacon from the states is still falling off. These provisions have lost considerably in public favor since Whittaker was as popular here as Garibaldi. This meat does not seem any longer to be selected from the best hogs and cured and packed as it used to be. The Briton is not a blind gourmand, and soon goes to snother shop if he discovers a change in the house he is dealing with. American fresh beef, on the contrary, of which the English have not eaten less than 49,478 tons last year, is again making capital running.

is again making capital running.

There is another delectable dish of which the English will never get tired. It is oysters.
Well, the American trade is not bad as to the quantity. I have just been told at Billings-gate that 39,056 barrels of American oysters have already arrived in England this sesson, and that 3,000 more are expected this weak.

The fact is that the Englishman, and especially the Londoner, is willing to pay well for his food; but he will have something for his investment. Badly off in scientific and refined cookery, he is dependent for gastronomic joys upon the immaculate quality of the food put on his table, and will stand no nonsense.

Although not referring to a provision transaction, I beg leave to relate the following story, which will give you an idea of this ugly system: The other day a firm of this country was asking for tenders. The competition was as hot as a Soudanese conflict. You could not for the life of you have hazarded a dollar on the issue of the event when and looks. not for the life of you have hazarded a dollar ou the issue of the event, when suddenly it finished unexpectedly in favor of a foreign firm, which, with a due consideration for the refined taste of the agent acting for the London-firm, had presented him with the prettiest possible brougham and a magnificent pair of stepners. of steppers.

ATHENS, Ga., June 26; 1884. I have been familiar for a number of years with the general character of Prof. Horsford's phos phate préparations. Recent examinations made some of the "Acid Phosphate" and "Bread Preparation," show them to be exactly what is claimed for them in the circulars accompanying the packages. The "Acid Phosphate" is a cond ted solution in water of Acid Phosphate of Lime The "Bread Preparation" is a mix ture of Acid Phosphate of lime, carbonate of sods and flour. When mixed with water, carbonic acid gas is liberated and a double phosphate of lime and soda is formed and remains in the bread when baked. In ordinary cream of tartar baking powders the substance left in the bread after "raising" is rochelle salts-a double tartrate of soda and potash. The phosphates are usefu mineral substances in animal nutrition and growth, the tartrates are not.

In my opinion the Phosphatic Powder is, therefore, preferable to the others, so far as healthfulness is concerned.

THE treaties which the expiring republican administration tried to force upon the country have been recalled by President Cleveland. The senate will probably agree to this course. This will be the end, for the present, of entangling foreign alliances.

THERE will be but little sympathy wasted upon Mackin, the Chicago election falsifier, who has been sentenced to a term in the states prison. It is such acts as he has been convicted of that obstructs the will of the people and destroys their belief in popular government.

AT an extraordinary meeting of the English cabinet yesterday, it is supposed that steps were taken to promptly meet every movement of Russia in central Asia. The circumstances of the meeting were such as to cause alarm for the peace of the world, and the markets of London, Paris, Vienna and Berlin throbbed in sympathy.

THE status, in heroic size, of the late Williap M. Wadley, was successfully cast in New York yesterday. When completed it will be set up in Macon, the central point of his great railroad enterprises, and it will stand there as a lesson to the young men of the land, to show what industry and determination can do.

Missouri comes before the new administration with the same modesty which characterized Ohio in 1876 and 1880. Her congress. ional delegation has met and virtually demanded that everything be given to Missouri. The account of their wants as told in our telegraph columns, partakes of the humorous. They should have gone further and asked that new offices be created for Mis-

THE coming centennial issue of the Augusta Chronicle will be an event of rare interest, not only in the history of Georgia, but in the history of journalism in the United States. That a Georgia newspaper, founded while the rattle of revolutionary musketry was still echoing throughout the land, should still be flourishing in old age with all the vigor of youth, is a subject which calls for felicitation all over the state. THE CONSTITUTION extends its heartiest congratulations to the Chronicle and to Mr. Walsh, whose management has made it what

A NICARAGUAN COMPLICATION. Guatemala has for a number of years been ruled by an ambitious, wealthy and capable man, Barrios. President Barrios is also bold and unscrupulous man. Gaatemala is altogether the strongest of the Central Ameria can states, and it has long been the dream of President Barrios to unite all of them in one confederation. He evidently thought voluntary action on the part of Honduras, San Salvador, Nicaragua and Costa Rica an improbability, for he proceeded to "decree" an union of the five states, and by proclamation to install himself as their executive. His army is to enforce the proposed union. In other words, he proposes to conquer Costa-Rice, Nicaregue. San Salvador and Honduras, and add their territory to that of Guatemala. Weak as the four states are, the bold chieftain of Guatemala will find that he has a job on his bands of pretty large dimensions. The four states will resist the usurpation, and they will call in all the assistance they can

President Barrios is inimical to the Nicara gua canal project, and it is thought he issued the proclamation when he did in order to nip that project in the bud. It is perhaps fortunate that the senate did not ratify the canal treaty, for it would at once have involved this country in Central American politics. By the terms of the treaty, it would have become our duty to build and defend the capal, and that would have led to war with Barrios. The states of Nicaragua and Costa Rica would practically have become dependencies of our government. As matters stand now the five states will fight it out among themselves. If Barrios is successful, he wil govern a republic stretching from Mexico to Panama, and Central America will begin to claim rank with the South American republics, and possibly with Mexico.

THE OKLAHOMA BUSINESS. There may be something more in the Okla homa troubles than the av rage newspaper has any suspicion of. question as it has been dealt with by the republicans. There will be a full and fair inestigation, and the bottom facts will be brought out.

In his recent report, Mr. Lincoln, republican secretary of war, declared that there were no cattle runs in the disputed territory, but it seems that the secretary was misinformed, to use no stronger word. Captain Couch says that there is not an acre of land in Oklahoma which is not claimed by cattle companies. The territory which Lincoln and Teller said was unoccupied and untenanted, is declared by Captain Couch to be occupied by the Berry Brothers, claiming 200,000 acres, Burke & Martin, claiming 100,000 acres, the McClellan cattle company, claiming 500,000 acres, the Wyeth cattle company, claiming 500,000 acres, the Fitzgerald Brothers, claiming 200,000, and the Standard oil company,

SELF-EDUCATION.

There are many boys and young men in Georgia and all over the country to whom the question of education presents itself in the shape of a serious problem. They lack means as well as opportunity. They feel that, in order to properly equip themselves, they need something more than a common school education; but they lack the means. They feel the necessity for adding to their acquirements, but they are compelled to face the more pressing necessity of existence. They must live, and if they live they must work. They feel that they are handicapped by their condition.

It is natural that ambitious young men and boys should feel cramped by the misfor tune which compels them to become breadwinners at the age when their more fortunate acquaintances and companions are just beginning to enjoy the advantages of those to whom all the avenues of education are open. Their anxiety is natural under the circumstances, but it is very doubtful whether their cramped condition-their lack of opportunity-places them at any disadvantage. The most successful men-the men who are most famous in the world's history-are, almost without exception, men who have overcome the obstacles and triumphed over the misfortunes that beset them in early life.

The president of Dartmouth college, in recent lecture in Boston, declared that the difference between "self-education" and 'school education' is merely a superficial distinction, "All real education," he is reported as saying, "all highest education in whatever line, is all self-education." This is suggestive. Unquestionably inclination is rarer than opportunity; inclination is everything. A boy or young man who is determined to succeed in life is bound to succeed. A boy or young man who is determined to reap the benefits of the highest education will find that the way is open to him even though he should never get in sight of a college or a university. The boy or young man who possesses all the advantages that are to be found in our institutions of learning will never acquire a useful education unless he has the ambition to educate

The system and discipline of colleges are helpful and important, but there can be no doubt that the advantages of college education are greatly overestimated. They are overestimated because the great majority of boys who go to college are impressed with the idea-the superstition, we had almost said-that, in order to succeed, in order to secure a substantial education, they have only to obey the rules and follow the routing laid down. A young man could not make a greater mistake than this. Let the system of the college be all that can be desired-let its faculty be composed of the foremost educators of their time-and they will still fail to educate those who do not educate themselves. The fact that a young man has graduated from some educational institution is no evidence that he will not fail in life. He may graduate even with the highest honors and still prove to be a practical failure so far as conspicuous success in life is concerned. On the other hand, a young man who, to all appearances, has had few opportunities and no advantages, may make his way, not only to success in the ordinary sense of that word but to fame. He succeeds, not because of the obstacles which have been placed in his way, but in spite of them. He would have succeeded if he had had every advantage. A college education would have been helpful to him, but he found the lack of it no serious drawback.

The moral of all this is, that young men who are ambitious should make the most of the opportunities that lie directly at hand. They may be small opportunities, to be sure, but a small opportunity may grow to be a very large one. Let those young men who magine that they lack opportunity, or who believe that circumstances have conspired to place them at a disadvantage do the best they can, and they will find that they have done the best. The secret of success is an open one. Hard work, and application in a given direction, will accomplish anything.

THE APPROPRIATION BILLS.

The appropriation bills as amended in the last days of the session have not been printed. and the exact statement of their footings can not be given. Hundreds of changes were made after they passed into the hands of the conferences, but the following table is a close approximation of the thirteen general bills

Pensions	20,810,000	$60,000,0
Military academy	314,863	128,0

Deficiency	7,057,509	5,101,3
ricultural	24,635,000	24,611,96

The apparent increase of about $50,000,000 is due in good part to the pension appropriation. During the present year the pension bureau is using an unexpended balance, and for the coming year the full amount needed had to be voted. The unexpended balance available for pensions at the beginning of the present fiscal year was estimated at $66,000 .-000. The remainder of the increase can not however be explained away, and the tax-

Thaill be assessed in round figures about of for the purposes named in the

for the current year. To offset this however there will be no river and harbor tax next year, the bill having been talked to death in he senate. The current year the appropriation on account of rivers and harbors is over $13,000,000.

It is now twenty years since the war ended, but partial history of the great struggle than we were the day after the surrender. Many of the most prominent actors in that stirring period are still n the stage, and they view the war from such widely different standpoints that it is impossib reconcile their testimony. The war papers now running through The Century bid fair more bitter feeling and strife than anything that has been published in a score of years. If no two witnesses of a street fight can tell precisely the same story, how can two generals or two soldiers agree upon the details of a great battle Napoleon called the most finished modern history "a fiction agreed upon," and he was not far wrong. The historian rejects what is dull and unprofita

ble. He uses what is bright and beautiful, awfu and terrible. Saxon chronicles describe the atrocious character and the deeds of the Norsemen. The Norse chronicles show that their heroe were admirable. French histories show the French always whipped the English, and Eng lish histories show that the English always de feated the French. Here in America we have good reason to believe that we whipped the Mex icans in the war of 1846, but Mexican histories state that the Americans were defeated in every battle. If we read a Catholic history, how can we get the truth about the Protestants, and if we read Protestant chronicles how near are we to the truth about the Catholics? The fact is, the historic muse is a lying old hag who prostitutes her pen to serve the prejudices of sects, races, nations, sections and parties. But what can we do? Clearly, we must read both sides and then make up on udgments. Of course the correctness of our con lusions will depend upon our intelligence, fairness, and freedom from entangling prejudices.

For generations the heirs of Anneke Jans have been endeavoring to recover the valuable New York property held by the Trinity church corporation. The heirs have increased and multiplied until they are now almost as numerous as the sands of the seashore. They have organized societies, and occasionally hold meetings to discuss the prosecution of their claims. At present there are over 5,000 heirs, and the property claimed worth fully $3,000,000,000. A memorial will be presented to the New York legis lature asking that the charter of the Trinity church corporation be revoked, and a suit in equity will also be brought. The heirs of Anneke Jans have a big job on hand. A set of persons holding three billion dollars worth of roperty will be slow to give it up, and the courts vill be disinclined to see anything legally wrong in the conduct of the possessors of so much wealth. It is difficult to see how the merits of the case can ever be reached and adjudicated.

VERY few people have any idea of how Cleopatra really looked. A portrait found many years ago in the temple of Serapis, at Tivoli, is believed to be the best ever painted. It was ordered by the Emperor Augustus just after the queen had destroyed herself with the asp. In this portrait Cleopatra is represented life size from the waist up, wearing the crown of the Ptolemies, jewels in ner ears and on her neck, and bracelets on her arms similar to those found by Schliemann in the tomb of Helen of Troy A red or purple mantle, knotted on each shoulder, covers the right breast leaving her left breast exposed, and above this her hand rests, holding the fatal serpent. Three small wounds denote where it had bitten, and it is shows to be on the point of biting again. The pupils of her eyes, so darkly blue as to be nearly black, are so lifted as to be partially hidden, and tears are visible on her cheeks. Her nose is Grecian, her hene small, her figure full. Her mouth is half open, her tongue pressed against the teeth, with an ex pression in her face (full view) of sorrow and pain. Her blonde hair, loosely knotted, falls over he m, and is covered, like the eyebrows, with golden powder. Her arms and hands are exquis tely shaped. The portrait is excellently preserved, but is not nearly so beautiful as Cleopatra-greatly idealized by time and poetry-is supposed to have been. Probably she was not beautiful: indeed. Plutarch, who at least knew the traditions respect ing her, says she was not strictly so, her charm consisting in her winning ways and varied talents. She was unquestionably what we should call now adays magnetic-magnetic to so extraordinary a degree that she fascinated all who came in contact

Young wives and giddy belies form acquaintances with unprincipled skaters and clope with them. The elopement mania seems to be as widespread as the roller rink craze, and one follows upon the heels of the other. The New York Mail and Express gravely moralizes over this new danger to ion. It sees something in roller skating that tends to unbalance people morally as well a orporally. The fascination of the sport tends to deaden thoughts of duty, and its devotees become as dangerously addicted to it as the opium eater to his drug. Home duties are neglected, work is burried over, and every aspiration is lost in the one object of excelling as a performer on roller skates. It is worthy of note that all the reports of the demoralizing conseque of roller rinks came from the north and The amusement has a strong foothold in the south but it seems to be patronized in a reasona-ble way and the skaters tumble about without loosing their heads and all sense of dec propriety. MICHIGAN abolished the death penalty in 181 and seems to have no intention of restoring it. In the early days of society the death penalty was imposed for numerous offenses. Life was cheap, and in England men were hanged for shop lifting or for cutting a switch on a lord's domain. Final ly juries violated the law and acquitted criminals rather than have them killed. When milder penalties were imposed juries again did their duty. and the laws were enforced. The advocates of the Michigan plan claim that many innocent men have been executed. They argue that the execu tion of an unrepentant criminal sends him endless punishment, and that if he repents and becomes a Christian it is incongru ous for Christians to take his life. ENGINEERS OF THE EAST TEN

Why They Feel Themselves Aggrieved-The Story from Both S.des-Efforts of the Brothtchood to Adjust the Differences-General Macon Matters-Personal, Etc.

MACON. Ga., March 12,-[Special.]-For som weeks past trouble has been brewing between the engineers and the authorities of the East Tennes see, Virginia and Georgia railroad. Mr. Joe Por ter, engineer on the Savannah, Florida and Wes tern railroad, and chairman of the commi grievances of the brotherhood, came to Macon yesterday to confer with the officers of the road. A brief outline of the position of the engineers is s follows:

An agreement was made with the road last sum mer, by which the engineers were to receive for cents per mile for miles run. It is claimed that this arrangement was made upon a basis of stead; runs. The runs have not been steady, but the engineers have been subjected to long waits and delays caused by awaiting orders or obeying orders. It is also claimed that many injustices hav been done the engineers. Among these, that charges against the men under the old admin tration have been taken up by the new and acted on again, and the men suspended or discharged. The road's position is, that when Superintenden Fry assumed control on the first of January, he mmediately set about bringing affairs into first class business shape. The contract with the en gineers has been strictly carried out, and no dis-charges for offenses already punished have been made. Further, that all suspensions or discharges have been made for violations of well-known rules, and that discipline on the road could not have been maintained by retaining the offenders At half past two o'clock to-day, a meeting wa held at the general office of the railroad company on Fourth street. Mr. Porter, master of trains, J er machinist W. A. Walden, of Atlanta, were present. Mr. Porter presented the case of the engineers and requested that the suspended and discharged men be restored to their places. He intimated that if the request were not complied with, that he could not do so. Up to midnight to-night there were no further

The city authorities let the matter stand until the 10th instant, when it was thought the court would allow the tax to be paid. It was not paid on that day, and six days more were given the company t the expiration of which, if the tax was no paid, Chief Wiley was ordered to close the office. the meantime, an injunction was obtained in Atlanta against the city from Judge Boarman. Dr. Burchard achieved last autumn, and reflected, of course, on the cou munion of which he is a member, and regardless that the doctor is every whit as sound in and mind now as he was then, it shoved him out of his Murray Hill pulpit yesterday and (what is sadder yet) it appears to have done so at the instigation of the doctor's parishoners. The proceedings will be found in our report of the Presbytery's monthly meeting. There is a vain endeavor to gloss over the transaction by styling the doctor "pastor emeritus" and voting him a pension. But the pension is only five hundred dollars a year, and what is that in the fitness of things for a man who (as Mr. Blaine told the country in his Augusta speech after the election) settled the choice of president of the United States with three words? No speech nearly sa brief and at the same time so decisive is on record. Nor do the ungrateful Murray Hill people even obligate themselves to pay this petty stipend. That it is, all things considered, the best arrangement that can be made.

When the next house meets it will probably have a long discussion on its rules and on the arrangement of its committees, but it is very doubtful if any important changes are made. The truth is that congress, with its three hundred and twenty-five members, is a hard body to mance. Every ression witnesses a great dred and twenty-five members, is a hard body to manage. Every seasion witnesses a great increase in the number of bills and petitions. Legislation is necessarily slow. The long sessions run into July and August every time. way. Besides the elevated grade for admission which is natural to the progressive ideas of the republic political bias is so strong that it would be almost impossible for a territory to gain admission unless it had, in a pronounced form, the same party complexion as both houses of congress. With congress divided as it now is between the two parties no territory could get in. Many years may pass before the flag of the union bears on its field of blue more than thirty-eight stars.

TALMAGE ON POLITICS. The Brooklyn Divine on Topics of National Interest. New York Special. In a recent edition of one of those pictorial papers given to caricaturing public events, there is representation of the late inaugural ball at Wash ington, and in the gallery, overlooking the dancers on the floor, there is pictured a tall, lank, lean, and hungry looking individual, whose eyes look longingly down as if eager to join the company of dancers. The prominent cheek bones, pallid countenance and frosy hair would indicate to ninety aine men out of a hundred who may chance to look upon the picture that this prominent figure is intended to represent the Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage. It may have represented that prominent divinesome time ago, but not now, for when a reporter sent his card to room No. 9, Grand Pacific hotel, last evening, he was told to step up, and was cordially received by the Brooklyn ministerial in an entertaining way. Mr. Talmage it was seen at once is growing fat. His cheeks are rounding out, and a carmine color is depicted on his countenance. His nether extremities have taken on considerable avoirdupols, and there are indications that a double chin is one of the possibilities in the near future. His hair was parted low down on the side, brushed skillfully over the top of his head, but the crop was hardly formidable enough to conceal the bald spot over his ponderous intellectual dome, while his repeated thrusts of the hand over his ears caused the reddish brown hisute adornment at the back of his head to rest in inextricable confusion.

"Yes," he commenced, "I am seeking recreation by a brief lecturing tour. I used to think idleness had a recuperating power, but am now convinced that a trip in railroad cars is wonderfully rejuvenating. A week ago this morning I admitted 189 into my church, which gives us at present 3,550 communicants and an average gathering of over 5,000 at each service on Sunday."

sonally. Shortly after Mr. Cleveland was elected we two ministers met, and Mr. Beecher said in a humorous way that his man had gained the white house, and he guessed he would apply for a position. He put the matter in a jocose light, and I looked at it in that way."

"Seriously, do you think Mr. Beecher would accept a foreign mission if ithwas tendered him?"

"He might. He has worked hard and needs rest and I don't know but what he would avail himself of the opportunity to go abroad if the mission was offered him.

"Can it be considered that you left the republican party during the last campaign?"

"I made four or five national speeches, but there was nothing partisan about them."

"Have you any idea that Mr. Cleveland's election will cause commercial depression?"

was nothing partisan about them."
"Have you any idea that Mr.Cleveland's election will cause commercial depression?"
"None in the least. A change in the administration will seriously incommode nobody except those who are in office and who may go out, and those who are in office and trying to get in. What is needed is a cheerful people, and hard times would be unknown. A community is simply an individual intensified. Let an invalid go out on the street and the first friend be happens to meet tells him he is looking bad; by the time a dozen friends have made the same remark the twelfth one will have to carry him home on a sbutter. So long as people talk about hard times go long will such a state of things prevril."

"How does the idea of two men from New York in the cabinet strike you?"

"well. I suppose Mr. Cleveland, not having an extensive acquaintance outside of New York, desired to have men near him with whom he was well acquainted. I believe Cleveland's administration and its policy will not differ much from Arthur's. When Secretary McCulloch turned over the freezery department to Mr. Maining, the other day, the one retiring said that the new comer would find that the treasury department and been run in accordance with the views held by Mr. Cleveland, and nothing would have to be undone."

Speaking of the growth of the prohibition party,

Speaking of the growth of the prohibition party, Dr. Tahasge said it would not matter if both the democratic and republican parties ceased to exist, slavery was dead and damned and the policy of the cemocratic and republican parties ceased to exist, slavery was dead and damned and the polley of the democratic party to fight against the establishment of titles of nootifity was ended. Temperance was a moral issue and a national one, and if the prohibition party assembled in convention a month or two before the conventions of the other parties and put up a man for president like Senator Colquit, of Georgia, he believed the ticket would win. The south was for prohibition. In the north intemperance had increased fivefold. He had seen more drunken men on the streets of Chicago than ever before. He thought people drank more when they had less money and during hard times, and that so much adulterated liquor was on the market that the people who drank it were burnt out cuicker. He favored throwing open the doors of the South American republics. Providence intended this American republics. Providence intended this American continent to be one and not divided. The small waist connecting the divisions only made the continent more graceful. Os this point he was decidedly an advocate of free trade. Mr. Talmage leaves to day for Peoria.

The "Clamorous South."

The fears that were expressed when Mr. Clevepresent arrangement. How to preserve this safeguard and to facilitate the preparation of these bills is the question. One proposition is to have several land invited two southern senators to places in his cabinet that the "clamorous south" would overwhelm the administration in the pursuit of offices do not seem to be in a way to be justified. offices do not seem to be in a way to be justified. Reports from all sources, even in the journals most solicitous for Mr. Cleveland's safety from the predicted onslaught, agree that the number of men solicitous for Mr. Cleveland's safety from the predicted onslaught, agree that the number of men from the south seeking office in Washington is far less than the number from other states. The southern members of the cabinet have given no sign of any special desire to find places for applicants from their section, and Mr. Lamar is reported to have requested the assistant attorney general for his department to retain his position.

It is clear that there will be many changes in the service in the south, because there ought to be many. In the customs, internal revenue, and attorney general's branches of the service the south has been overrun with men put in office and kept there for political purposes. This has been true for many years, and though the internal revenue service has been improved of late, there remain in it and in the other branches a great number of werse than useless appointees. They will gradually be removed, but their places will not be filled by mere place hunters. On the contrary, there will be great care given to the selection of capable men of good character, who will attend to their business and not to polities. The new men will necessarily be democrats in the great majority of cases, because it is from that party that the best selections can be made. But we shall be greatly disappointed if they be not efficient and upright men.

The "clamorous south" thus far exists in the imagination of the northern editor. The south, taken as a whole, does not now seem to have sent as many office seekers to Washington as New York and Illhiols alone. The reason is clear enough. The democratic party in the south has not been based as much upon the spoils as the same party in the north. There has not been the same field for "deals" there as here. The professional politicians are of a different public sentiment behind them, The southern people are very much in extracts in wishing a reform of the federal service smoon them, for they sorely need it. But they fed of the deals" the reform ment behind them. The southern people are very much in earnest in wishing a reform of the federal service samong them, for they sorely need it. But they feel a distinct pride in baving the reform genuine and in showing to the country that they have been sincere and not partisan in their demand for a change.

A GERMAN named Wolff, now in London, has discovered a cure for writer's cramp. The new treatment consists partly in rubbing, kneading, stretching and beating of the fingers and the several muscles of the hand and arm. There are gymnastic exercises, both active and passive, and most important of all, there are graduated exercises in writing, with a view to calling into play a new set of muscles in lieu of those injured by the cramp.

War in an Editor's Sanctum. AUSTIN, Texas, March 12 .- [Special.]-The Wochtenblatt, a German paper here, contained in its last issue serious charges against Superintendent Denton, of the lunatic asylum, his wife and the management. To day Dr. Denton and his bookkeeper entered the apartment used by the editor for an office and residence. The family were at dinner. After some words Denton attacked the editor with a cane. The members of the family disarmed Denton and his bookkeeper and ejected them from the house minus their pistois and hats. The assailants went to the recorder and pleaded guilty to assault and carrying concealed weapons, for which they were fined. The German editor will take the matter before the grand jury.

Charged With Wife Marder.

FORT SMITH, Ark., March 12,-A bloody wife murder has occurred at Sculyville, in the Choctaw nation. Joseph Jackson entered the house where his wife was washing dishes, and shot her twice in the breast with a double-barrelled shotzun, killing the breast with a double-barrelled shotgun, killing her instantly. He immediately shouldered his gun and walked three miles after a woman to attend his wife, whom he said was very ill. Upon reaching the house where his wife lay dead, Jackson appeared startled and reported that his wife had been murdered during his absence. Suspicion pointed so plainly toward him as her murderet that he was arrested and brought to Fort Smith for trial. Jackson recently became enamored of another woman.

In doing so ho stated that the jury had displayed unmerited leniency in making up their verdict. He was convinced that Patrick Ford and John Murphy had had only justice done them by the unqualified verdict of guilty, and believed that the other prisoners were equally guilty. He then passed sentence of death upon Patrick Ford and John Murphy, and sentenced Judge Thomas J. Immigration.

New Orleans, March 12.—The weather today was clear and beautiful, and the attendance at the exposition was fair. About 75 members of the Tennessee legislature arrived this evening. They will take part in the celebration of "Tennessee Day," which occurs on Saturday. The national temperance association, met in Music fall to-day. Eloquent addresses were ddivered by Miss Frances Willard, Mrs. Mary T. Lathrop, Hon.
John P. St. John and others. Another meeting of the association will be hed to-morrow. The southern immigration society resumed its labors to-day. A paper alvocating a single immigration service was read by W. P. Ross, of the New Orleans maritine association, following which a long discussion was had. Most of the members of the association present expressed themselves in tayer of establishing an emigration depot in New Orleans, and a committee was appointed to confer with several commercial bodies of the city to determine how best this could be effected. The association will meet again to norrow.

A SHERIFF ATTACKED. But is Saved by the Tinely Interference of a Colored Man. JACKSONVILLE, Fila., March 12.—Sheriff Dewitt, of the adjoining county of Clay, went into the inner room of the county jail building at Green Cove Spring, to give the prisoners their dinner. Upon intering as usual he looked the door. The prisoners, three white and two colored men, has been released from their cells and were walking about the room. As soon as the sheriff set down the five attacked him, and throwing him upon the floor endeavorid to stiffe his shouts by putting a coat over his mouth while searching him for the key of the door. The sheriff, a powerful man, fought desperately, and the struggle finally attracted the attention of a colored man passing by, who summoned his companion, Lewis Robinson, to assist. Robinson passed the barrel of his revolver through the grating and commanded the prisoners to release the sheriff. The men at first refused, but Robinson was determined, and they finally retreated to their cells, leaving the sheriff in a bruised and helpless condition. The courageous act of the colored man saved the sheriff's life.

TRAMPS ROUTED BY FIRE. four Knights of the Crosstie Smoked Out

Louisville, Ky., March 12.—The barn of W. H. Hawkins, at Live Oaks, Owen county, was discovered to be on fire at an early hour in the morning, and the flames so rapidly spread that the building was soon enveloped in fire. The barn contained 3,500 pounds of tobacco, and while efforts were being made to save it the rescuing party heard cries for help issuing from the interior of the burning structure. The spot where the cries came from was surrounded by hogsheads of tobacco and at the time unapproachable. The fire was partly extinguished on one side of the stock of hogsheads thrown aside. Behind them, in a small nook, were found four tramps, who had been rendered unconscious by the smoke. They were promptly rescued and taken to a neighboring house. One of the men was burned about the body and head and is not expected to survive. The others were not so seriously injured, but are still unconscious. The barn and its contents were totally destreyed. Loss about $5,000; no insurance. of a Burning Building.

From the New Orleans Sun. One of the most popular stories heard from New Orleans has for its hero Charley Heidelberg, of Inspector Byrnes's staff. Detective Heidelberg rolled into town one morning not long ago wearing no end of new clothes, a cheerful smile and a big eigar. He took in the town for a short time, a cigar. He took in the town for a short time, accomplished his mission, and then started but to see what the place was like. He was in his usual condition of genial hilarity, made friends everywhere, told forty-seven stories to the hour, and whooped her up vigorously. Dave Hennessy, the detective who attracted so much attention by his discovery of Esposito, the origand, acted the part of guide, philosopher and friend to Mr. Heldelburg, Hennessy, who is one of the most popular men in New Orleans, said before the pair started out on the night of Heidelburg's arrival:

of supreme contempt. "What kind of jay do you think I am to come down here to the very garden spot of Shootville without on iron? Armed! Well, rather."

of supreme contempt. "What kind of Jay do you think I am to come down here to the very garden spot of Shootville without on iron? Armed! Well, rather."
"Good," said Hennessy. "Of course there's no danger, as we're only going around the corner to a quiet little place, but you know men shoot quick here if they shoot at all, and if you get in any sort of a row, either get out of the way at once or pull as quick as you know how."
"Don't worry about me," said Mr. Heidelberg, winking. "I don't talk, you understan', but I'm on deck, dy' see? On deck."
"Well, there is a policeman stationed at the foor of every saloon in town, and they search customers before they go in. If they find pistois on them, the weapons are left in the hands of the officer until the customers come out again."
Mr. Heidelberg(expressed his entire understanding of all this by'a nod, and the two men went around the corner. Two round-shouldered, dyspeptic-looking and thred policemen nodded their heads to Dave Hennessy; and one of them searched Mr. Heidelberg of New York.
"That's all right," said Mr. Hennessy, "He's amed, but he has a right to be."
"Of course it's all right if you say so, Mr. Hennessey," remarked the sad-looking policeman, "but your friend ain't got no weapon, all the same."
"I ain't, ch?" said Mr. Heidelberg. "Why ain't nessey." remarked the sad-looking policeman, "but your friend ain't got no weapon, all the same."

"I ain't, ch?" said Mr. Heidelberg. "Why ain't 1? Do you think I ought to wear it on a blue rib-bon slung 'round my neck?"

Then the two men passed into the bar room and joined a lot of friends.

But something seemed to worry Mr. Hennessy, and his eyes constantly wandered over the compact and closely clad figure of the New York detective. Finally he said:

"Where is that gun of yours, Heidelberg?"

"Where is it? Why, here it is,"

With this Mr. Heidelberg arose, stuck his cigar in the corner of his mouth, pushed back his hat, and slowly unbuttoned his coat. Then he unbuttoned his waist-coat, and reaching down in the inner pocket he felt around with a far off look in his eyes. He presently fished out a neat roll of chamols skin, which he untied, after some delay, and carefully unrolled. Finally he revealed, lying snugly in the chamois, a neat and pretty little revolver that looked like a toy.

"Well," He said, with some irritation, "what are you all laughin' at? I ain't quick enough? No place to keep it? Where do you bloomers keep your.—"

"Here," came in a deep chorus from the half-place to keep 117 Where do you bloomers keep your,—"" "Mere," came in a deep chorus from the half-dozen detectines around the table, and like a flash they whipped half a dozen 44 calibre Trainor revolvemout of their pockets and thrust them towards the New Yorker.

Mr. Heidleberg smiled faintly as he made the boy waiter a present of his toy, and remarked: "Gentlemen, you have the call. Have a bottle with me."

THE RAILROAD STRIKES. FREIGHT STILL BLOCKADED IN THE WEST.

> The Wabash Road Held at Bay by the Strikers Secure Their Rights—The Situation in Texas and Other Points West.

St. Louis, March 12 .- The Missouri Pacific shop men held a meeting last night, and for-mally decided, in view of the action of the company in restoring the wages, they would not strike. Everything is quiet about the railroad shops here this morning. The men arc all at work, and seem to be entirely satisfied with the action of the company yesterday in restoring their wages. The strikers at Hannibal, Mo., have been joined by the section men of the woodworkers, and now number about seventy-five. No freight trains are allowed to move on the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railroad, but passenger trains are uninterrupted. General business is suffering, and a good deal of discontent is becoming manifest among the laborers in the lumber yard, who had their wages reduced recently.

The Kansas City Strikers. KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 12 .- The Missouri RANSAS CITY, Mo., March 12.—The Missouri Pacific officials made no move to-day toward paying off and discharging the strikers, though reports of such intention were in circulation throughout the day. The paymaster returned direct from Atchison to St. Louis, and no effort was made here to move the freight trains. A committee of strikers left to-night for Sadalia, where, with the cemmittees from other points, they will hold a conference with Mr. Hayes.

A Conference with the Strikers. Morenty, Mo., March 12 .- A conference between the committee of strikers and the managers of the Missouri car company, les-sees of the Wabash shops, has been held. The managers stated to the men that if they would managers stated to the men that if they would resume work at the cut rates their wages would be increased according to their worth. This proposition was rejected by the committee, who said the men woulf not go to work until an arrangement was made that was satisfactory to the workmen all along the line. It is not unlikely that the contract between the Wabash company and the lessees of the shops here will be cancelled if the managers do not commence work in a very few days. Quite a number of workmen here are making arrangements to move to other places where arrangements to move to other places where employment may be had.

The Air Filled With Rumors. The Air Filled With Rumors.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., March 12.—The air is filled with all sorts of wild rumors. The strikers claim that a compromise has been offered by Governor Brown, representing the railroad company, to restore the old wages of last October, with a possible increase. Governor Brown denies the statement, and says the railroad company will not negotiate with the strikers, because they are not law-abiding, honest citizens, and the railroad could not trust them under the circumstances. trust them under the circumstances.

Another Point Taken.

PLEASANT HILL, Mo., March 12 .- A strike commenced here this morning, and the shops and yards are in possession of the mob. Trouble is expected. The military are still out fifteen miles west of here. The Federal Marshals Resisted HANNIBAL, Mo., March 12 .- United States Marshal Cousins reached here this morning with a strong force of deputies to protect the Wabash railroad property. Train Master Ritch also arrived, bringing four engines from Springfield, to move about 100 loaded cars, held by the strikers. These were met by the strikers, who refused to allow the property to fee to the Misseyri Karsay and met by the strikers, who refused to allow the engines ta go to the Missouri, Kansas and Texas yards for cars. Two of the laborers were arrested, the locomotive they permitted to pass, but the engineers refused to run their engines without permission from the strikers. The police then boarded one of the locomotives, ran it to the yards and got out one train, which started east this afternoon. The regular engineers finally concluded to run their engines, and work progressed. The strikers are very indignant at the police.

SEDALIA, Mo., March 12.—There is no change in the condition of affairs here. The streets of the city are as quiet as on Sunday, and scarcely any business is being done. Adjutant-General Jamison is here again, and with a police force is endeavoring to move the freight trains. Five attempts were made and each time strikers requested the engineers not to move their engines and the request was complied with.

Again this evening the adjutant general attempted in connection with Superintendent Hayes, to get out a freight train, but, at the request of the strikers, the engineer left the engine. The strikers' committee, which want to Jefferson City to see the governor, report that the governor told them that they had a right to use persussion, and as long as they right to use persuasion, and as long as they used no other means to stop the trains they would go unmolested. The state labor com-missioner has urged the strikers to return to

The Strike in Texas.

Denison, March 12.—The Missouri Pacific railroad made no attempt to move freight trains to-day. The company has notified the strikers of this discharge by posting notices on the doors of the shops and roundhouses, requesting them to call and get their money. Only one man so far has complied. No arrests have been made, as the officers of the road do not know the men offending, and can find no one who dares to tell who they are, or make affidavits. Governor Ireland's proclamation has had no effect.

The Pittsburg Strikers. PITTSBURG, March 12.—There is no special features in the miner's strike to-day, except the Castle Skannon forces joining in the demand for three cents. The operators assert that the extent of the strike is greatly exagerated and that fully two-thirds of the river mines are still in operation. There is no indication of weakening on either side. Thus far the strike has been conducted quietly and no fears of trouble are entertained.

NEW YORK STOCKS. Stocks as Reported in the New York Stock

NEW YORK, March 12.—The stock speculation showed a disposition to wait for further developments. The belief is growing that the market should have a reaction before making any further material advances, and there is also a disposition to wait for definite war news. The European news received on Wall street to day was of a more pacific character. At the opening of the board prices were somewhat irregular, but a majority of the Anclines, when in many cases the lowest prices of the day were made. After a slight rally the market became steady and so continued until the pub lication of a report crediting Preisdent Keech, of the Northwestern raflway company, with the statement that the next Omaha dividend would not be paid. This was followed by a break in Omaha. Grangers sympathized in a decline. This story was subsequently denied and a slight recovery took place. This was followed by a renewed weakness espec'ally in St. Paul, which was affected by rumors regarding the next dividend. The whole list closed weak and 1/4 to 2 per cent below yesterday. St. Paul, Omaha, Lackawanna and Northwestern showed the greatest declines. The

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Fentures of the Speculative Movemen s in Grain and Produce.

By telegraph to The Constitution. CHICAGO March 12-The leading grains were unsettled to-day, while the provision list fragged heavily and with marked unsteadiness. As a general thing there was less of a showing of war news. Fructuations in consols were also withn narrower limits, making the general tone easier. Wheat opened a little wildly, selling all the way from 83%c to 85%c for May in different parts of the pit. As a happy medium it was officially called sale, at which figure the bulk changed hands, Later fluctuations were 11/4c, the course being rregularly downward. Cables were decidedly trong and higher and private cables called probabilities against war, and on this fact there was free selling. Considerable long wheat was also brought out on the decline. The close of the morning session was about steady.

Corn was fairly active and relatively firmer than wheat, though it received the bulk of its tone from that market. Few if any special features were developed, which confined fluctuations, in the leading future, to %c. No. 2 cash was quoted at 41%

Oats are much neglected, selling sparingly. Provisions were a shade higher at the opening but in no case advanced over the opening. The general tone of the market was one of more or less heaviness, with no disposition to enter into spec ulation by either faction. This made fluctuations confine themselves to narrow limits. The close of the morning session, though heavy, was at a shade advance over lowest quotations. PROVISIONS, GRAIN, ETC.

While this game was in progress the attention of those in the room was riveted to the table on which it was being played. In a few minutes, however, every table in the room was under way, and a gay sight was presented. The room was crowded until the hour of closing last night.

This billiard room is probably the finest in the south. It is equipped with twelve handsome Erunswick-Balke tables, the duplicates of which have just been placed in the Hoffman house and the Liederkranz of New York. The balls are of the best material, and a well supplied stock of cues allows a player ample opportunity for the selection of a kind to suit any fancy. The gas fixtures are very attractive, and every detail of the room makes it one of the handsomest and best equipped in the of the handsomest and best equipped in the country. LOUISVILLE WINS.

AN EXCITING GAME AT ATHLETIC PARK YESTERDAY.

e Easebail Season Opens in Atlanta with an Excit-irg Game Between the Louisvilles and tas Atlantas, in Which the Atlantas are De-feated—Details of the Day.

In spite of the clouds, an immense crowd ssembled at Athletic park yesterday to witless the first ball game of the season. The Atlantas did better than was expected. They were nervous in the first two innings and made error after error, while the Leuisvilles piled up eight of their eleven runs. After this the home team played better, and even brilliantly, and held the visitors down to three runs in six innings. After Receius had taken Hecker's place in the box they pushed their own score up heavily. They would have beaten the game, in our opinion, if they had played the first two innings as steadily as the last. It was the first game the team ever played together.

The Atlantas will try Sullivan and Clark as the battery to-day, put McVey in the field and rest Bauer. The Louisvilles will pitch Hecker and Receius half the game each, as on yesterday. There are many people who believe that the Atlantas will win to-day's game. They will certainly make it interesting for the famous visitors. It was the universal comment last night that never before had twenty-five cents bought so much sport as in yesterday's game. If to-day is fair the crowd will be phenomenal. Yesterday's was the largest ever seen in the park. Mr. Hart, the league umpire for Atlanta, won golden opinions. THE GAME.

THE GAME.

Louisville won the toss and sent Atlanta to bat. Hecker was in the box for the visitors, and the crowd cheered him when he delivered his first ball. Cahill hit a hot one to Cline, who threw him out at first. McVey suffered a similar fate from Receius, and Clark sawed the air three times. Cline made first on Bittman's error. Browning struck a foul to McVey and went out. Wolf secured first on another error by Bittman. Cline went to second and home on Hecker's two bagger. Kerning flew out to Jevne, Cline second, Wolf going to third and home on Kerrins's long fly. Reccius knocked a fly which Jevne secured, ending the first inning with 2 to 0 in favor of the Louisvilles.

ing the first inning with 2 to 0 in favor of the Louisvilles.

The second gave Bauer a home run, Cleveland, Dundon and Henke going out respectively on a fly to McLaughlin, grounder to McLaughlin and fly to Hecker. By a series of mishaps, the home team got a little rattled when Louisville went in, and allowed them to score six runs, made by Crotty, Sullivan, Cline, Browning, Hecker and Kerrins, Atlanta scored again in the third on Cahill's two baser over second, and McVey's safe hit for first. The Louisville side took a goose egg in their half.

Some good playing was done on both sides the rest of the game, the Atlantas adding two in the seventh, four in the eighth and one in the ninth. The Kentuckians only succeeded in scoring once again in the fifth and twice in the sixth. Hecker and Sullivan changed places with Reccius and Crotty in the fifth. Bauer's pitching was superb, and no more balls were called off his delivery than Hecker had, while only three more struck out. while only three more struck out.
The following is the score:

"A TRUSTY'S BRUTAL ACT."

A Talk With Colonel B. F. Abbott in Ref-Yesterday Colonel B. F. Abbott said to a Consti-UTION man:

"In your notice of the case of Hosea Bice and wife vs. the Marietta and North Georgia railroad company, recently tried in Cobb superior court, which was an action for damages in consequence of injuries inflicted on Mrs. Bice by the convict Rataree, you do injustice to the railroad company without intending so to do."

Rataree, you do injustice to the railroad company without intending so to do,"

"How was that, colonel?"

"The company is not now interested in convict labor. I, however, deem it simple justice to the company and all concerned that a statement of the facts of the case should be made. The plaintiffs alleged in their declaration that Rataree was a convict, sentenced to the penitentiary for homicide, and assigned to the Marietta and North Georgia railroad company; that he was a dangerous man, not fit to be trusted, and that the defendant knew it; that it was its duiv to keep him under guards os as to prevent him from injuring the plaintiff's wife. That in November, 1881, the defendant turned Rataree lot se and sent him away into Haralson county where the plaintiff resided, and where without prevocation he shot the plaintiff's wife, inflicting on her a painful wound, etc."

"What were the facts?"

"The evidence introduced by the plaintiffs made a very different case. It was in substance this: In August, 1881, the defendant having a grant of convict labor from the state, made a contract with Mr. Geo. R. Eager to construct, repair and equip its railroad, and that by the contract the defendant, and to feed, clother, guard and care forther convicts according to law. The evidence showed that the defendant had no actual control oper the convicts, but they were controlled and managed by Mr. Eager. Rataree was one of the convicts turned over to the defendant and by it turned over to Eager. Rataree was sent to the penitemiary for involuntary manslaughter, for the term of the peritemiary for involuntary manslaughter, for the term of the penitemister of the penitemiary for involuntary manslaughter, for the term of the penitemister of the penitemiary in this behalf, the statement being made that the offense for which Bataree was convict elemency in his behalf, the statement being made that the offense for which Bataree was convicted was committed under circumstances amounting almost to justifiable homicide. During his term of service while in the possession of the contractor, he had showed every evidence of reformation and the superintendent of construction; swore that he verily believed that Rataree was not only thoroughly reliable but completely reformed. A convict named Wood had escaped, and Rataree went from the convict camp, near Ball Ground, to Marietta, near thirty miles, to give information looking to the capture of the fugitive. The general manager of Mr. Eager's work of construction on his own responsibility, and without any authority from Mr. Eager's from the defendant company, and without the knowledge of either, sent Rataree to Haralson county to order the sheriff of that county to arrest Wood. Rataree was not furnished with any weapon. Rataree shot Mrs. Bice at her home in Haralson county. He was tried for that offense and sentenced to the penitentiary for ten years. This was the testimony of the plaintiffs damages, etc., not necessary to be referred to. On the conclusion of the plaintiff's eximony the defendant's counsel moved a non suit on the ground that under the facts of the case the defendant's counsel moved a non suit on the ground that under the facts of the management of the M. & N. Minnie Maddern in Caprice.

To-night will be presented, on our stage, this beautiful comedy-drama by one of the most charming and most talented young artists of America. When in Chicago, lately, the press of that city expressed as follows their admiration for the little lady; Inter Ocean: "Little more than a child she enters the field with a fresh, grrceful movement, and Legins a contest for the place the older actresses are not long to hold. There is something about this impulsive, warm hearted little maiden that is above and beyond all merely artistic skill, and he who would subject her to the cut and dried rules of criticism, would criticise the song of the nightingale. Her fun bubbles up like a fountain, and her pathos melt into involuntary tears like an April shower. * * She lets her low sweet voice rise and fall just as the fancy strikes her."

Times: "She is full of intelligence with strong Times: "She is full of intelligence with strong framatic instincts." World: "Her methods are always delightful."

Lynwood,

This new successful drama will be presented at the opera house Monday and Tuesday, March 13

The St. Louis Globs-Democrat, speaking of Mr. Eben Plympton in J. K. Tillotson's American drama "Lynwood," Mr. Plymoton is an actor of intelligence and imbues his work with spirit and fire. He is artistic also to a refined degree, and the rich quality of his histrionism cannot fall to make him admirers wherever he goes. His Victor Blanchard last night was fully appreciated and roundly applauded. Miss Keene, despite her small figure, succeeded in carrying the heavy burden imposed upon her in the role of Lucile ariysic and became a favorite at o nee.

NOT A FRENCH BALL.

Only a Drunken Jamboree of the Elite of New York Society.

best rociety? Are they always perfectly proper? Is there never anything seen at such of a young person? Let us see. Once upon a time, a ball was given at the house of one of the leaders in New York society. The decoraremark was made about this, and the hostess replied substantially as follows: "I can't get into any of my dressing-rooms to get a wrapper. They are all occupied by my guests who drank too much wine last night and are sleeping of the effects of it." An surely exough it was true. Several rooms of this fine-mansion were filled with drunken men and women who move in the best (?) society in New York. An English lord particularly disgraced himself. He was so drunk, says report, "that he could not even be thrown out of the door." The performances at this ball were not exceptional. At an entertainment in another averane, only a short time before this one we have referred to, there was too much wine drunk. And one of the "funniest" incidents of the night was the discovery of one of the guests under a sofa which had such short legs that it seemed impossible that any one could have crawled under it.

Her Soldier Is in the Soudan.

From the New York Sun. Sarah Goughlin, a passenger by the Nevada, landed yesterday at Castle Garden. With her were a bright-eyed boy and a pretty female infant.
The woman said to the chief clerk, with tears in The woman said to the chief clerk, with tears in her eyes, that she was the wife of Hugh Goughlin, a soldier in the Scotch Grays, and that the regiment had gone to the Soudan. "He could not take me and the children," she sobbed, "and there are now so many widows in England that he told me to come out here to my sister in Chicago, When my man kiesed me good by I felt it was the last I should see of him."
"What are you going to do with the boy?" asked Mr. McQuade.
"He is a soldier's boy, and he'll be a soldier, too," she replied.

Mr. Goughlin and the children left last night for Chicago.

VERNON, Ga., February 17th, 1885. DE. J. BRADFEILD,

Dear Sir: I was informed by a friend of some of the miraculous cures that your Bradfield's Female Regulator had performed and persuaded to buy a bottle and it has helped me so much, and I feel so greatly improved everyway that I shall keep up its use until fully restored, which I am sure will not be iong off. I have been an invalid for the past four months and during the time have been treated by three physicians and I can truthfully say your Regulator has done meimore good then all the medicine I have ever tak en combined [I] only write this to let you know how much good your great Female Remedy has done me, and I expect to tell all other suffering women to use it for it is "OUR BEST FRIEND," and does all you claim for it. Respectfully yours, S. F. Birdsone BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO. Gentlemen: Your medicine has worked like a charm. I think my improvement is wenderful, and words fail to express my gratitude to your company, for the great benefit I have derived from the use of your "Bradfield's Female Regulator." I shall do all in my power to introduce your medicine to every afflicted lady who is suffering from any womb trouble. I wish every one so troubled would try it, for I KNOW IT WILL CURE THEM. #### SHERMAN'S WRATH.

HE REFUSES MEMBERSHIP ON THE FINANCE COMMITTEE,

Why the Ohio Statesman Permitted Himself to Overcome with Anger-The Treaties Withdraw -The Danger Hanging Over Wade Hampton-The Day in Congress.

WASHINGTON, March 13.-[Special.]-I withdrawn to-day, will be pigeonholed in state department, as Mr. Bayard led the position to it in the senate, and is now know to have expressed Cleveland's views. Spanish treaty may be returned to the son but it is hardly probable.

WHY SHERMAN IS MAD. John Sherman's refusal to serve on the nance committee was because his claims to chairmanship were ignored, and Morrell continued as chairman by the caucus. Si man was chairman of this committee be he went into the Hayes cabinet, and was to succeeded by Morrell. He thinks Mor ought now to give way to him, as he gave to Fessenden on the same committee, w Fessenden returned to the senate after cab pervice. Morrell declines to do so, and Si man has a bad case of the sulks, but it thought the finance committee can sh

priated half a million for armament of two new crossers. There is no way to remedy the a now, and while the cruisers may be built provision for their armament can be made til the next naval appropriation bill. error occurred in the great rush to agree to many points of difference on the appropriation bill, during the last few hours of congr po as to obviate an extra session.

WADE HAMPTON IN DANGER.

who asked Mr. Sherman for his reasons to day, he said:

"If I have any apologies to make, I will make them to my constituents."

The report of two years ago that Sherman wished to be restored to the chairmanship of the committee on finance, from which he withdrew to become secretary of the treasury, is revived, and it is said that some personal ill-feeling existed between himself and Sentor Morrill, the present chairman of the committee. In consequence, Mr. Morrill was asked in regard to the matter to-day, but replifted that he had nothing to say, but he added the so far as he knew, the relation between Sherman and himself were cordial There is said to be a feeling which is not extirely cordial between Sherman and Aldric and rumor alludes indefinitely to a demand request said to have been made by the formethat the latter should be removed from the finance committee, in default of which that the latter should be removed from a finance committee, in default of which (Sherman) would no longer serve. This can not be traced to any authentic source, but of the other hand, none who should know a facts are found to deny it. It can be said the when the subject of Sherman's retirement we referred to in caucus the other day, the coll fluy which ensued between Sherman and Morrill was kindly in toneach professing sincere personal esteem for a tother. The only reason brought forward if the retirement of Sherman was his belief the interests of his constituents were not fair considered in the action of the committee upon the wool tariff. Mr. Sherman asked then be relieved from further service, but the can be relieved from further service, but the cour, by a formal vote, declined to relieve hi The misunderstanding between Sherman a Aldrich dates back, it is said, to the action Aldrich dates back, it is said, to the action the committee respecting the tariff, and hibeen revived and possibly increased by the controversy over refunding and the nation bank measures, in respect to which the two were advocates of widely different courses of procedure. It is likely that nothing further will be heard of the matter until the left season as the committee will have not next session, as the committee will have not ing to do beyond the consideration of nomins dious during the present session.

Places are left open in seven of the committees for the successors of Bayard and Galand, namely: In the committees on claim spidemic diseases, fisheries, patents, revision of the laws, the tenth census and the examination of the several branches of the civil service.

The president's message asking for the return of the Ni araguan, Spauish and Dominical traties was received by the senate to-day is executive acsoion. The three treaties with beturned to the executive at once, no action of the senate being required, as the secretar complies with all such requests under the general rules. The message withdrawing the treaties is very short. It assigns no other reason for the withdrawal than "for re-examination."

But how is it at the balls of the fashionable highly respectable members of New York's places calculated to bring a blush to the cheek tions were of costly flowers, and the entertaintions were of costly flowers, and the entertainment and wines provided were simply superb. All that money could do was done to make the ball a success, to be celebrated in the papers far and pears. No one was invited but one whose seed salvation was assured, whose position was a assailable. What happoned? A few friends of the family who had not been able to attend the ball, dropped in the next morning early to see the floral decorations before they had quite faded. They found the lady of the house still in her ball dress. Some remark was made about this, and the hostess replied substantially as follows: "I can't get into any of my dressing rooms to get a wrap-
